

Will's journey began with struggles that started early. "I started using marijuana when I was 12," he recalls. Over the years, substance use led to painful consequences: lost jobs, broken family relationships, time in jail, and a deep sense of hopelessness. "I gave up on life. I wanted to kill myself."

But in the darkest moments, something stirred in Will. "It was my kids," he says, naming the reason he first sought help. His recovery journey hasn't been easy, but Will has found renewed purpose through faith and community.

"Reading the Bible, getting right with God, and being around people I trust, those are the things that have helped," Will shares. Restoration Springs, he says, became a turning point. "It made me realize life's short and not to waste it. That people care. That life does give you a second chance if you really apply yourself."

At the heart of Will's transformation is his faith. "You gotta believe in Him. Just put it all in His hands, and let Him do it—you'll see it."

Now, Will has a message for anyone struggling: "Believe in God. Don't give up on yourself. You can do it if you try. Never give up. Never give up hope. There's always another day you can walk."

This past year has been one of deep reflection and overwhelming gratitude. God has blessed us beyond anything we could have imagined, faithfully guiding every step we've taken. The provision of the new Restoration Springs Community Center has truly become the heart of our campus — a place where small groups gather, workforce development classes come to life, staff find space to work and collaborate, and our residents can grow stronger in every way.

As Philippians 4:19 reminds us, "My God shall supply all your needs according to His riches in glory by Christ Jesus." The Will Bright Foundation is living proof of that promise. He has provided, and continues to provide, everything we need to be His hands and feet right here in Fayette, Alabama.

Thank you for your continued prayers and support.
